

Service Discovery - True Sample

Service Discovery is a project component used in a modern data-processing system. This document defines the main responsibility of the component and the conditions under which it should be used. Example record 26 focuses specifically on service discovery and should be treated as a separate source document during ingestion.