

RAG Evaluation - True Sample

RAG Evaluation is a project component used in a modern data-processing system. This document explains how the component interacts with other services and what information moves between those services. Example record 29 focuses specifically on rag evaluation and should be treated as a separate source document during ingestion.